BARRIERS FOR INFLATABLE POOLS?

If your small inflatable pool can hold more than 300mm of water, Queensland law requires it to be surrounded by a child-proof compliant barrier. Ensuring you comply with the law means avoiding possible maximum fines of more than $800. Follow these simple steps:

- Learn more about your pool barrier obligations with our online checklist at qbcc.qld.gov.au.
- Register your pool on the pools register at qbcc.qld.gov.au.
- Get a pool safety certificate if you’re selling or renting your property.

Falls into water account for over 75% of drowning deaths in children under five nationally.

Non-compliant pool barriers can attract on-the-spot fines of more than $800 from your local council.

If the inflatable pool can hold more than 300mm of water, it has to be surrounded by a child-proof compliant barrier.
