BSA Firewall Upskilling Seminars

21 September 2005

BSA through its dispute resolution system and auditing function, has become aware there is a level of non-compliance with the fire separation provisions (Section C) of the Building Code of Australia (BCA) that requires multiple unit/townhouse building to have an effective fire barrier between each unit/townhouse.

BSA requires all of the following licensees to attend one of BSA's seminars by the end of 2005:

- builders who over the last 3 years have carried out building work on multiple unit/townhouse buildings;
- nominees for building companies who over the last 3 years have carried out building work on multiple unit/townhouse buildings;
- licensed building designers; and
- licensed certifiers

BSA would like to invite you and any of your supervisors to this seminar.

If you will be attending one of the following seminars please download and complete the form below and fax back your RSVP to 3225 2829 or contact BSA's call centre on 3225 2800. If more than one person will be attending please list all names and BSA Licence Nos.(if applicable) of additional attendees.

It is compulsory for all building certifiers, building designers and builders who have constructed or designed multiple unit/townhouses to attend this seminar by the end of 2005. BSA will review its records in December 2005 and those licensees who have not attended the seminar by that stage may have a condition placed on their licence requiring them to attend.

BSA looks forward to seeing you at one of the seminars.
