MEDIA RELEASE

BSA & BCITF Supershow: Update your building knowledge for FREE!

“To improve work standards and help Queenslanders build better, the Building Services Authority (BSA) and the Building and Construction Industry Training Fund (BCITF) are coming together to bring you a big day out with heaps of interesting and informative DVD and “live” presentations,” said BSA’s general manager, Ian Jennings.

“I urge BSA licensees to enjoy a day in the company of like-minded BSA licensees and get the low-down on new standards and regulations, see demonstrations of best practice methods, and find out how to avoid building pitfalls,” he said.

Presentations cover topics including:

- Supervision of Building Work
- Concrete Paths & Driveways
- Subsidence
- Waterproofing
- Plasterboard Installation
- Termite management
- Fire Separating Walls
- New Financial Requirements for Licensing
- Domestic Building Contracts Act 2000
- How to get paid quicker through the Building and Construction Industry Payments Act 2004
- Insurable Work

“BSA / BCITF Supershow” will run throughout Queensland over the next 12 months, commencing in Brisbane and extending to all major regional centers.

“We have already run several shows throughout Queensland. These have been well received by contractors and feedback has been very positive.”

Spaces are limited so be sure to reserve your place early by contacting BSA on 1300 272 272 or visiting the BSA website at www.bsa.qld.gov.au.
